Red Atom Blast Long Awaited, Causes No Panic

Ottawa Told by Washington About Explosion Two Days Ago

OTTAWA, Oct. 3 (CP)—Russia's second atomic explosion left Ottawa unshaken but still in doubt today as to whether the Soviets have an atomic feast or famine—or something in between.

External Affairs Minister Pearson informed the federal cabinet of the event at a meeting this afternoon. Following the meeting, Prime Minister St. Laurent told reporters this and added:

"I don't know any more about it than you do."

The Canadian capital like the man who waits for the second boot to drop has been waiting for this blast for a long time. As much as anything else, it is intrigued by the fact it didn't come sooner.

Canadian officials were not surprised when Washington announced Soviet explosion No. 2 finally has come, more than two years after the first.

One reason was that the U.S. government informed Canada through normal diplomatic channels some days ago of the development.

The other was that authorities here have been waiting for at least a year for it to happen.

Now that it has happened, officials said, it won't affect Canada's own atomic program, devoted primarily to peaceful pursuits but which turns out research work useful to both Americans and Britons in their bomb programs.

One source said: "If an explosion every two years is the best the Russians can do, they're not doing very well."

"But," he added, "it would be rash to draw a conclusion on that evidence alone."

White House Confirms Bomb Drop

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3 (AP)—Russia set off a second atomic bomb recently, the White House announced today.

The terse statement termed the blast "another atomic bomb." This was the first official confirmation that President Truman referred to a bomb when he announced the Soviet initial "atomic explosion" Sept. 23, 1949.

Only minutes ahead of the official word, the AP had begun transmission of information from other competent sources that the government was studying information indicating the Russians actually made two atomic explosive tests in recent days or weeks—one of them a failure.

These sources said the data already studied indicates the tests involved only standard nuclear fission not the fusion-type explosion involved in the hydrogen bomb.

The White House did not go into such detail. Presidential Secretary Joseph Short concluded his brief statement:

"Further details cannot be given without adversely affecting our national security interests."

"In spite of Soviet pretensions that their atomic energy program is being directed exclusively toward peaceful purposes, this event confirms again that the Soviet Union is continuing to make atomic weapons."

Reds Chased Back Home

Club-wielding West Berlin police are shown driving East Berlin Communists back toward their own sector yesterday after the western zone was invaded by 5,000 Reds. An hour-long rock fight was broken up after 10 policemen and a number of rioters were injured and about 60 ringleaders arrested. The invasion was accompanied by demands for German unity and national elections. — (AP Wirephoto.)

Bitter U.K. Oil Workers Quit Iran, head Home

ABADAN, Oct. 3 (INS).—A total of 315 British workers, some of whom blamed London government "bungling," abandoned Britain's billion-dollar oil property today in compliance with an Iranian ultimatum.

A group of 275 employees of the British-owned Anglo-Iranian Oil Company — nationalized by Iran over the bitter protests of concession - holding Britain—boarded the cruiser Mauritius.

Forty others, including 16 nurses, flew out of Abadan, site of the world's largest refinery, a day ahead of the ultimatum deadline.

There were no incidents. Hundreds of Iranians, guarded by troops, watched the departure of the British oil men in a situation one Briton has described as an "economic Dunkerque."

Some of the embittered British employees said they intended to return home and campaign against the British Labor government which has called parliamentary elections Oct. 25.

In Tehran, it was announced that Iranian Premier Mohammed Mossadegh, the man who led the nationalization steps against Britain, would leave by plane for New York next Sunday.

Mossadegh will map Iran's battle against Britain in the U.N. security council. Britain has demanded that Iran obey a World Court injunction calling for Britain to operate the big oil industry pending a final settlement between the two countries.

A Marine band played as the oil technicians boarded the Mauritius and R.A.F. jet planes flew overhead during the two-hour evacuation.

The Mauritius, accompanied by five British tugs and a group of destroyers, then moved upstream to land the oil workers at the Iraqi city of Basra. From there the workers will fly home.

Communists Use Vancouver Death

A Communist newspaper in Warsaw, Poland, is using the death of Stanley Deren as a basis for attacking British freedom and justice, a delegation from the British Columbia branch of the Canadian Polish Congress yesterday told Attorney-General Gordon Wismer.

Deren died in Vancouver after being struck by John Joseph Dillane, who objected to him talking in Polish to a friend on the street. Convicted of manslaughter, Dillane was sentenced to three hours in jail and fined $250.

ASK ASSURANCE

The Congress delegation asked Mr. Wismer only for assurance "that the government will in the future, as before, protect the right of the Canadian citizens or Canadian immigrants to express themselves in a way and in a language they see fit."

Unlike a delegation which came here Saturday from the Vancouver Slav Committee, the Congress delegates said they did not intend to interfere with judicial procedure or influence in any way the further development of the Deren case.

SHAMEFUL

The Slav Committee attacked the sentence handed down by Mr. Justice A. M. Manson as "shameful and unprecedented" and asked that Dillane be given a sentence of from one to three years.

Mr. Wismer said the Polish Congress represented 95 per cent of the Polish people in Canada and contained no Communist element.

"I assure the Polish Congress and all other nationalities that they will be given the full protection of the law the same as any other Canadian citizen," said the attorney-general.

He guaranteed that every effort would be used to punish illegal discrimination.

St. Lawrence Meeting Postponed

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3 (AP).—A meeting of the House of Representatives public works committee scheduled for tomorrow on legislation to authorize new St. Lawrence seaway legislation was postponed today until Friday.

Chairman Charles A. Buckley (Dem., N.Y.) said the postponement was necessitated because the House will meet at 10 a.m. EST — the hour which the committee had set for its hearing.

The bill which the committee has under consideration was introduced Monday by Representative John A. Blatnik (Dem., Minn.). It contains provisions not included in earlier seaway legislation which the committee pigeonholed in August.

The Blatnik measure would leave disposition of the project's power plant if and when constructed up to Congress. This is contrary to an agreement reached several years ago by the federal government and New York state that New York would take over operation of the power plant after it was built by the government.

Patricias Sharing In Huge Offensive

Allies Strike 40-Mile Front

U.S. EIGHTH ARMY HEADQUARTERS, Korea Oct. 4 (Thursday) (AP)—Allied troops of nine countries, backed by tanks and planes, gained up to two miles Wednesday in West and Central Korea in the first big offensive since the truce talks began last July.

Elements of five Allied divisions struck along a 40-mile front that reached within earshot of Kaesong, site of the suspended cease-fire negotiations.

Bitter hand-to-hand fighting was put up by Chinese Reds. Allied troops had to burn them in their bunkers with flame throwers.

The Eighth Army disclosed today that troops in the attack were components of the U.S. 1st Cavalry, 3rd and 25th Divisions, the Commonwealth Division, and the South Korean 1st Division.

Also in the attack were the Turish, Greek and Filipino brigades.

Operating in the Commonwealth Division were Canadian, British, Australian and New Zealand troops. The Canadians were the Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry, part of the Canadian 25th Brigade.

Heavily-censored field dispatches and a communique pinpointed the furious action as sweeping northeast from Korangpo to Kumhwa.

The Chinese Reds were hit so hard on the ridgeline northwest of Kumhwa that they pulled out last night and gave up hill positions without firing a shot. Previously they had held off Allied attacks there for three days.

Red artillery stepped up the amount of shells sent screaming into Allied positions. One Allied officer said the Red shelling was improved in accuracy.

Reds Answer U.N. Proposal

TOKYO, Oct. 4 (AP).—The Communists today rejected Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway's proposal that Korean war truce talks be shifted to a new site.

TOKYO, Oct. 4 (Thursday) (AP).—The Communists today answered Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway's proposal that the stalled Korean truce talks be switched from Red-held Kaesong to a nearby no-man's land.

A Communist liaison officer handed the message to an Allied officer at Panmunjom and said it was "in reply to General Ridgway from Generals Kim Il Sung (North Korean premier) and Peng Teh-Huai (Chinese Red commander in Korea)."

The Reds broke a seven-day silence on Ridgway's proposal.

The delivery came at a time when the Allies showed a near exhaustion of patience by exploding heavy tank-led attacks on the vital west Korean front.

Contents of the message were not disclosed at once. But the only matter pending was Red rejection to Rigdway's Sept. 27 proposal that the talks be moved six miles southeast of controversial Kaesong in Red-held territory to a battle zone near Songhyon.

Today, in response to a Red request, two helicopters flew from Munsan, 23 miles southeast of Kaesong, to the Red checkpoint at Panmunjom. There Allied liaison officers were handed the message.

Ridgway suggested the switch in sites because Kaesong, in Red-held territory, had been plagued by "incidents."

Hits Transfer Of Prisoner

A prison physician, Dr. H. McKenzie, told a coroner's jury in Vancouver yesterday that murder suspect Daniel Leroy Sanger suffered from a severe heart condition and should never have been moved from Victoria to Oakalla.

The jury requested further information on the condition of 52-year-old Sanger, who died in prison Monday while awaiting trial on a charge of murder following the death of 24-year-old Mrs. Gwendolyn Dora Caswell, who was found dead in Sanger's Simcoe Street apartment here.

The inquest opened yesterday and was adjourned until this afternoon.

Non-Culpable Homicide Hunting Death Verdict

DUNCAN, Oct. 3. A verdict of non-culpable homicide was returned at an inquest here today after the jury's foreman returned to the coroner twice to ask for instructions.

The inquest was probing the death of 28-year-old Duncan plasterer Howard Eckhart, killed Monday in a hunting accident.

After the jury appealed to Coroner A. E. Green for the second time, he reconvened the court and told the jury what would be done if it failed to reach a verdict.

"I have no option but to send you up to the Assize Court," he said, explaining to the jurymen that after they had heard the charge of a judge and failed to agree on a verdict they might be discharged.

They reached a verdict 10 minutes later.

USED WHISTLES

Edward Crouter, 22-year-old hunting companion of the dead man, said that the pair had kept in touch with each other through use of "mechanical whistles."

He said he heard a faint whistle from his companion, on his left.

"Then I saw what I thought was a deer jump to my right," said Crouter. "I mistook branches for horns. When I went to the spot I found Howard."

Dr. W. D. McCaulley, in giving evidence, said death was instantaneous.

Difficulties encountered in bringing the body out were described by R.C.M.P. officers.

Gratuities For Britons

LONDON, Oct. 4 (Reuters). British forces in Korea are to get tax-free gratuities "in recognition of special services rendered," Defense Minister Emanuel Shinwell announced today.

Amounts will depend on rank and length of service of three months or more. A private with three months service will get £10. For each additional month he will get £1. A sergeant will get £11 for three months.

A lieutenant gets £17 3s. for three months and a lieutenant general £27.

Corresponding ranks of the navy and air force will get the same amounts.

Rates for women will be three quarters of the amount for corresponding men's ranks.

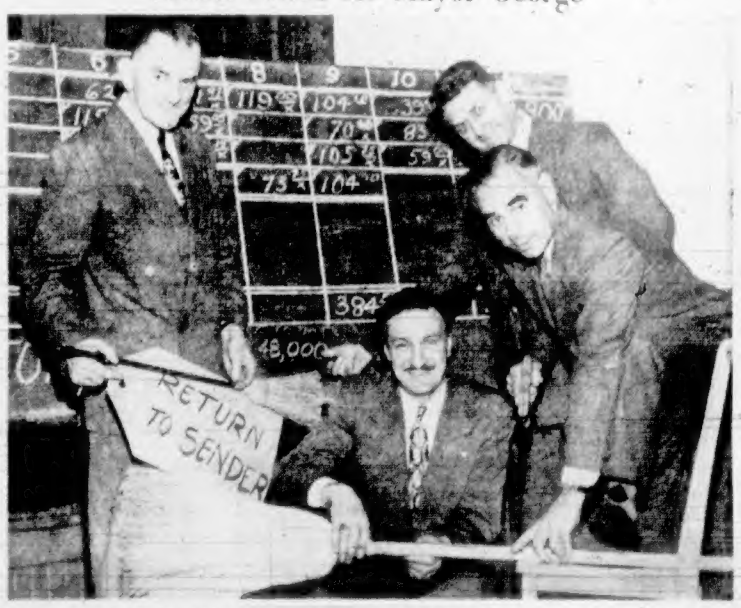
Chest Can Use Smallest Gift

"We still need those $5 and $2 bills and even the 50-cent pieces," H. B. Binny, Community Chest campaign secretary, said last night, reporting on the donations still being received.

A check for $500 was among those mailed to Chest headquarters at 647 Yates Street. "While we are most grateful for such a wonderful donation," Mr. Binny said, "we would be extremely pleased to receive donations of any size at all, even half-dollar ones."

The fund is still far short of the $240,000 goal and the city's needy families will suffer still further if money is not sent in.

Broom Fitted for Mayor George



Mayor F. H. Jackson of New Westminster happily saws a broom stick, "cutting it down to size" to send to Victoria's Mayor Percy George to use in sweeping the ice at an intercity hockey match as penalty for losing the Community Chest campaign race. The Royal city collected more per capita than Victoria. Shown with Mayor Jackson are Alex. Dunkinson, a Community Chest director, who holds a small broom sent to New Westminster by Mayor George; W. W. McKinney (kneeling), campaign chairman, holds the big broom steady and Fred Yates, Community Chest president, points to latest total, $48,000, collected by New Westminster.

Likeness of Couple Poor

Royal Visit Stamp May Be Criticized

OTTAWA, Oct. 3 (CP)—Later this month, Canadians will be able to buy tiny engraved portraits of Princess Elizabeth and Prince Philip at four cents a pair, but the chances are that they won't think much of them.

The post office department, which will be issuing them, doesn't think much of them either.

The portraits will be on the special four-cent postage stamp the department plans to issue Oct. 26 to commemorate the Royal tour. It will be on sale in post offices across the country.

"What the department is concerned about, and what the public will be quick to notice, is that the likenesses of the Royal Couple are poor, due to a number of factors over which the department admittedly had little control.

Enlarged photographs of the new stamp, made public yesterday, show the Princess with a wistful, almost remote, look. The Duke looks stern, his face almost in a frown.

A post office spokesman confessed today that the department isn't "completely happy" about the new stamps, but said it was the best that could be done in the circumstances.

One factor in the poor reproductions is that the photographs sent from the Palace in London for use in the stamps weren't considered, here at least, the best that could be obtained. Tradition dictates that only photographs supplied by the Palace can be used for Royal likenesses on postage stamps.

Another factor is the difficulty of translating photographs to stamp engravings.

"When you get an engraver trying to translate a portrait into an engraving you run into difficulties," the spokesman said.

"It's a delicate job to get the lights and shadows of a photograph into engraving.

"If you are lucky, you get a good likeness. If you aren't, you get a mess."

The third factor was the limited time the department had to prepare the stamp. The preliminary work, because of the difficulty of getting good reproductions in engravings, takes time—and that's something the department lacked.

The stamp, when issued, will be large-sized and colored purple.

Ships Collide In Channel

LAND'S END, Eng., Oct. 3 (CP)—A small British cargo vessel and the United States navy transport General Patch collided in the English Channel off Land's End today.

The transport ship was undamaged and the 874-ton British vessel, the Afon Gwili, was only slightly damaged. Both continued on their courses.

Pledges Bottle-Brittle

Alcoholics Find Salvation By Belief in Greater Power

(This is the second in a series of articles run in conjunction with an Alcoholics Anonymous convention to be held in Victoria Saturday and Sunday. The convention will include a public meeting in the Club Siesta at 3.30 p.m. Sunday. Mail address of A.A. is Box 1, Victoria. Telephone number is E 9151.)

By BRIAN LOUGHNAN

Hell is paved with good intentions, and pledges are brittle as bottles.

When Jack, a Victorian, who had taken 27 years to topple into the gutter, joined the city's Alcoholics Anonymous group, he was afraid they would ask him to "sign up and swear off."

He remembered the countless times he had sworn off liquor, only to give in when the urge struck hard. He recalled mornings when he had felt he was rotting inside from the effects of sustained drinking, and had smashed bottles of whisky in the sink.

What terrible, binding pledge had the other members signed to enable them to stay sober when the craving for liquor sweated from every pore? Did Alcoholics Anonymous get its start from some saloon-smashing zealot who had never tasted liquor?

TWO SPONSORS

Jack's two sponsors, the men who had answered his first call to the organization, told him the story of "Bill," the founder of Alcoholics Anonymous.

Bill was a New York stockbroker who helplessly drank himself into hospital in the middle 30s. He was close to death from drinking. The thought came to him that if he could recover, with the help of God, and devote his life to helping other alcoholics, he might cure himself in the process. In Akron, Ohio, he joined forces with an alcoholic physician known to members as "Dr. Bob" and from that meeting grew the first A.A. group.

From the first meeting of "Bill" and "Dr. Bob" came the 12 steps of Alcoholics Anonymous. Only the first step, that of admitting one was an alcoholic and in need of help, is required of members. The taking of the other 11 steps are left to each member's choosing.

The steps, as outlined at the first meeting, are:

1. We admitted we were power-

ALL ABOARD

By G. E. Mortimore

If British Columbia's liquor laws are strict, "we should capitalize on it as others do and suggest that B.C. is a better place for a family vacation."

So says Senator Richard L. Neuberger of Oregon. He probably means well.

Individuals are more noted for capitalizing on their faults than nations are. There have been claimants for the title of world's laziest man and world's fatest midget. Some people are fond of boasting how ill they are. They think it gives them an aura.

I know individuals who say they have a good memory for names and a hopeless memory for faces. Others say exactly the reverse. Both groups confess their defects with great self-satisfaction, as though it singled them out from the herd and made them interesting.

At least two other writers have focussed ridicule on people who boast of their ignorance.

Some such people smugly announce that they never have time to read a book. The implication is that they are too busy with affairs of practical importance to bother with such frippery. Others say "Mathematics are a mystery to me," or "I don't know a piston from a rear axle."

These people seldom make it clear that they dabbled in the subject under discussion and found it too much for them to master. They like to convey the notion that they never made any attempt to learn it, leaving their hearers with the feeling that they could have done very well at it if they had tried.

Or if they do admit having made an abortive start, they imply that the thing is a very inferior branch of endeavor anyway, and they have much weightier and more specialized talents.

Bertrand Russell put forward the theory that men who scoff and profess ignorance of the arts and demand respect for their ignorance are particularly common in North America. Such, he suggested, is an attitude of the "frontier," where men pride themselves on physical achievement and scorn pursuits they have no time or ability to follow. Locally, Bill Galt of the Colonist commented on this view and added some observations of his own in a book column.

When I review my own record, I find I have boasted several times in this space about my lack of skill with tools, my scanty knowledge of the insides of cars, my untidiness, poor memory, tendency to mislay objects and habit of postponing tasks until too late.

However, there is the vestige of an excuse for me. The man who makes his bread and margarine by trying to entertain people must sometimes reveal himself as the clown he is, so that those who read may feel superior and laugh.

But the man who boasts of his defects in private life can not plead that he is doing it strictly from hunger. He thinks it makes up for his lack of social graces and conversational staying power and transforms him from a drab member of the crowd into someone who is amusing, exciting or at least different. Make no mistake, nearly everyone does it sometimes.

* * *

If individuals can capitalize on their faults, so can nations, regions and tourist centres.

Dude ranches, which offer nothing to eat but beans and nothing to do but ride horses, attract vast crowds. Lesser mountain resorts rake in bushels of money in exchange for sore muscles and bad plumbing.

A lawless and nasty South American republic might attract visitors by proclaiming itself an ideal place to commit crime.

Although British Columbia is so dry, Vancouver is all wet with the kind of wetness no politician can do much about. The Vancouver Chamber of Commerce might well send out literature like this:

"Get to know your children once more! For a family holiday, follow the ducks to Vancouver, the city of beautiful rain and fog. We guarantee that foul weather will keep the family together indoors for nine days out of 10."

A.A.'s Anchor Faith in Higher Power

less over alcohol—that our lives had become unmanageable.

2. Came to believe that a Power greater than ourselves could restore us to sanity.

3. Made a decision to turn our will and our lives over to the care of God as we understood him.

4. Made a searching and fearless moral inventory of ourselves.

5. Admitted to God, to ourselves, and to another human being the exact nature of our wrongs.

6. Were entirely ready to have God remove all these defects of character.

7. Humbly asked Him to remove our shortcomings.

8. Made a list of all the persons we had harmed, and became willing to make amends to them all.

9. Made direct amends to such people wherever possible, except when to do so would injure others.

10. Continued to take personal inventory and when we were wrong promptly admitted it.

11. Sought through prayer and meditation to improve our conscious contact with God as we understood Him, praying only for knowledge of His Will for us and the power to carry that out.

12. Having had a spiritual experience as the result of these steps, we tried to carry this message to alcoholics, and to practice these principles in all our affairs.

SUSPICIOUS

Jack, the new member, was suspicious again, as are most alcoholics when the word "religion" is mentioned.

Jack did not call himself a religious man; he was suspicious of people who prayed too loud and too often, and in 27 years of constant drinking he had dropped church attendance. He discovered that religion is the touchiest subject in A.A.

New members are encouraged to reach their own decision on what a "power greater than ourselves" means to them. To some it means simply faith in the group therapy that the organization offers; to others it means a Universal Force beyond understanding; and to many it has the comfortable, familiar feeling of God.

But one thing a new member MUST have, Jack discovered, is faith of some kind, otherwise there is nothing with which to fight alcoholism, and life ends in one of three ways: insanity, prison, or as an unknown, shabby corpse.

Countries Will Get Newsprint From Canada

OTTAWA, Oct. 3 (CP).—The government has decided to step up emergency allocations of Canadian newsprint to help 10 countries in special need, it was learned today.

The latest allocation likely will total 14,000 tons, bringing emergency diversions in the last few months to more than 20,000.

This is only a small portion of the 5,400,000-ton production expected in Canada this year. But, since every ton is under contract, informants believe the allocations will mean less newsprint principally for publishers in Canada and the United States.

Since Canada is the world's biggest newsprint producer, she has agreed to shoulder the burden of the allocations, and, as in previous diversions will provide about four-fifths of the total.

Of the 15,800-metric ton allocation, the biggest amount, 5,000 tons, will go to western Germany. France and Yugoslavia are next with 2,000 tons each.

Union Blasts Co-operatives

PORTLAND, Ore., Oct. 3 (AP).—The Lumber and Sawmill Workers Union (A.F.L.), Tuesday declared war against co-operatives in the plywood industry.

The co-operatives, a post-war development, have been increasing fast in the plywood field.

Speakers, led by Tacoma delegates to the annual convention of the northwest council of the union, used such words as, "these phoney co-op schemes . . . employer-sponsored . . . union-busting . . . brings back the sweat shop days."

Iran Oil Dispute Looms As Top Campaign Issue

LONDON, Oct. 3 (Reuters).—The Iranian oil dispute tonight bubbled up as likely to be the biggest single issue in the campaign for Britain's Oct. 25 election.

Winston Churchill led a Conservative attack on the government's decision to evacuate Iran in a speech Tuesday night. Today Foreign Secretary Herbert Morrison replied, saying that Prime Minister Attlee never intended to maintain the position of the Anglo-Iranian Oil Company by force.

More may be heard of the matter tomorrow when parliament meets. It will be formally dissolved to clear the way for a [illegible] but Attlee or Morrison may make a formal statement before the Commons adjourn.

Morrison admitted to the Labor Party annual convention at Scarborough that Attlee had stated the government's intention was to keep Anglo-Iranian technicians in Iran.

NOT USE FORCE

"But what he did not say was that he would use force in keeping our people in Abadan," Morrison declared.

He asked Churchill to say "whether in his judgment we should have gone to war with Iran or not."

He was loudly cheered by the 2,000 Socialist delegates, who also gave an ovation to Attlee as the three-way meeting concluded.

The speeches by Churchill and Morrison were the opening rumbles of a campaign that is expected to be one of the bitterest in British political history. It is aimed at breaking the near-deadlock between Conservatives and Labor in the Commons.

The Conservatives are increasingly confident that the 34,000,000 electorate will bring Churchill back to 10 Downing Street as Prime Minister, ending six years of Socialist rule.

Fresh Protest By Students

SALMON ARM, B.C., Oct. 3 (CP).—School students of Salmon Arm municipality, barred from schools because a money by-law was rejected by voters last week, paraded again today. But only about 80 joined the procession, compared with some 400 yesterday when city and rural area students joined in the protest against the Salmon Arm School District ruling.

Today's paraders carried banners and taunted other students who had returned to classrooms with shouts of "chicken" and "yellow."

Reeve W. J. Thompson contended at a Salmon Arm municipal council meeting that the municipality had provided all the funds required under an arbitration award. He demanded in a letter to the school board that the schools be opened to municipal students, and requested the school board to enforce the School Act requiring attendance of students.

Dominion Civil Servants Will Press for Pay Boost

OTTAWA, Oct. 3 (CP).—The Civil Service Federation of Canada said today salary increases for the federal government's 120,000 workers is an "emergency" matter. It plans to press for immediate action.

In a statement, federation president Fred W. Whitehouse said that with living costs 17.8 points higher than last December—when civil servants received their last increase—the matter could wait no longer. He had been instructed by the C.S.F.A. executive to contact again with Finance Minister Douglas Abbott.

It was learned the C.S.F.A. will press for action before Mr. Abbott leaves to attend a North Atlantic treaty committee meeting in Paris Oct. 9.

Cabinet Gets Busy On Session Agenda

OTTAWA, Oct. 3 (CP).—The cabinet today got down to the final stages of drafting its legislative program for the parliamentary session that opens Tuesday.

In a day-long session, the ministers also discussed the question of Canada going ahead alone on the St. Lawrence seaway and were reported to have considered what action is to be taken toward easing restrictions on the marketing of Canadian mined gold. Cabinet meets again Friday.

Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent indicated to reporters there might be an early statement on gold policy in the light of the international monetary fund's lifting of its policy against the sale of gold on the free market.

Prime Minister St. Laurent announced that parliament, due to open Tuesday, will recess Wednesday and Thursday while Princess Elizabeth and Prince Philip are in Ottawa.

Since the early-year session still stands adjourned from June 30, it will be prorogued Tuesday, followed quickly by the formal opening of the new session with the reading of the Speech from the Throne. The Address in Reply will be moved Friday after the two-day holiday.

Rebels Attack In Indo-China

SAIGON, Indo-China, Oct. 3 (AP).—The Communist-led Vietminh army has launched its long-awaited fall offensive with two swift tactical gains in northwest Indo-China.

The French announced tonight the loss of strong points 80 miles apart in the mountainous Thai country west of the upper Red River.

Three battalions of rebel infantrymen seized the fortress town of Binhlu.

About 80 miles to the southeast, a column of eight to 10 battalions overran an outpost guarding the Thai country's largest town, Nghia Lo.

Policeman Killed in Wild Pursuit

LONGVIEW, Wash., Oct. 3 (INS).—A special policeman lost his life and a city patrolman was wounded today in a wild chase in which not a shot was fired in malice.

Dead is Fred R. Binkley, 47, of Longview.

Wounded by a gunshot in the heel is Patrolman George Dunn of the Longview police force.

[illegible] Stokes, 22, of Longview.

The chase began about 4 a.m. when the St. Helen's Inn, a frame hotel, was robbed of $60 or $70 by a youthful bandit brandishing a rifle. He fled in a commandeered taxi, driven by Donald Shepherd of Kelso.

Binkley and Dunn, driving in the Longview patrol wagon, saw Dunn and the taxi and chased them westward out of Longview.

Seven and a half miles west [illegible] a bump in the highway, careened into a boulder, bounced into a telephone pole, skidded toward a slough, struck a guard rail and overturned, throwing Binkley out and fatally injuring him.

Dunn, who was driving, was shot in the heel with his own service revolver, but police authorities refused to say how it happened.

Police cars were following the [illegible] Stokes while the other gave help to the injured man.

Production, Employment Boom Off, But Defense Orders Seen Remedy

OTTAWA, Oct. 3 (CP).—Canada's production and employment boom appears to be cutting down steam, but there are signs it soon will be rolling again at a faster clip than ever.

Government economists looking at recent trends with a critical eye, noted today a distinct slackening in the rate of increase in production and employment during the last few months.

But they also noted that the government still has not spent all the money it said it would spend for armament in its annual budget last March.

Defense production officials, for example, observed that arms production in Canada is only in preliminary stages. Next year, they estimated, there will be greater demand for scarce materials, especially metals, as Canada's arms-making machine gains momentum.

The economists, in their current issue of the Canadian Statistical Review, observed that during the first seven months of 1951, industrial production averaged about 12 per cent higher than in 1950.

But while the increase over 1950 was running at the rate of about 14 per cent in the first five months of 1951, the rate of increase for June and July dropped to only 7 per cent.

Significant, said the Review, was the fact that consumer spending had declined, the rate of increase of bank credit since the budget had slackened and production of durable goods had been reduced.

Oddities

NEW YORK, Oct. 3 (AP)—A joke on C.B.S. drew a groan on N.B.C.

On his Columbia Broadcasting System television show Monday night, Arthur Godfrey begged his audience not to clog the C.B.S. switchboard with calls asking the Dodger-Giants game score.

"Call Circle 7-8300 instead," he suggested. "That's N.B.C."

All afternoon yesterday, N.B.C. was swamped with inquiries, had to put on extra operators, and finally began broadcasting pleas over its local station to try to stop the deluge.

PARIS, Oct. 3 (Reuters).—A Paris apartment house janitor, Lucien Pipelet, each morning opened the love letters of one of his tenants, thought them ridiculous and threw them away.

Today he was ordered to pay $22.50 damages for causing a breach between the lovers.

The tenant, Jean Gaston, told court his fiancee had left town for three months, but promised to write every day.

Only four letters were delivered, Gaston said. As a result he stopped writing to his sweetheart.

When she returned to Paris and demanded an explanation, he said, it was discovered that Pipelet had opened and read the love letters and then destroyed them.

Gaston said that despite the janitor's sabotage, he and his girl had since married.

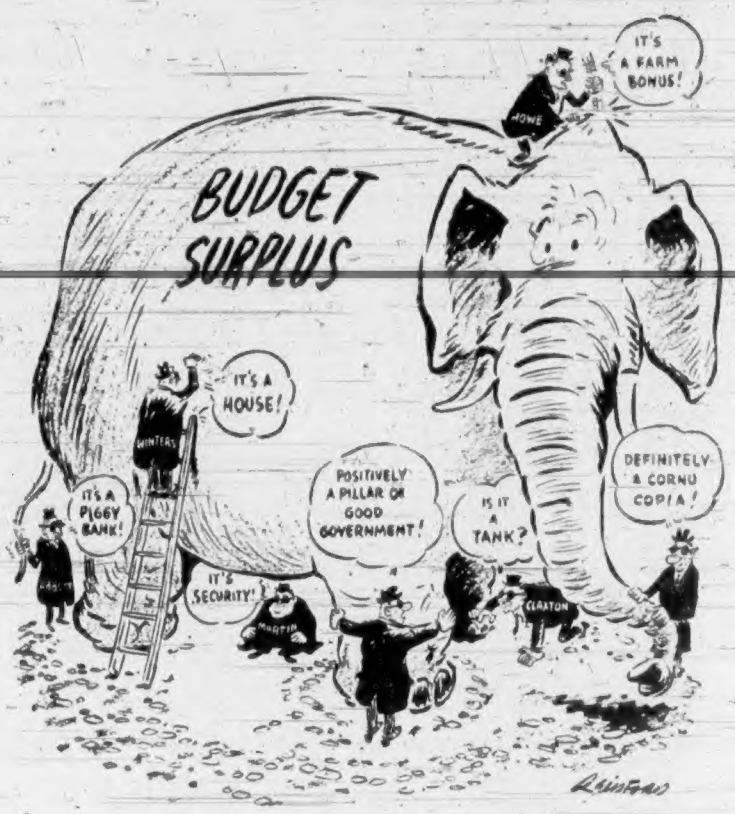
A Free and Responsible Press

"FREEDOM of the press is nothing but the faculty of writing and publishing what every citizen thinks or can utter with his tongue. The use of such a faculty is as proper as it is to think and speak; to oppress it is as unjust as it would be to bind the senses, the tongues, the hands and the feet of all citizens . . . Accurate news is the terror, the dreaded demon, of present-day dictatorships." In those few words Dr. Gainza Paz, editor and publisher of La Prensa until it was silenced by the Peron government of Argentina recently, set forth one of the basic rights of a truly democratic state. If all the expressions now observing National Newspaper Week were rolled into one they could hardly mean more than Dr. Paz has said. It was because La Prensa was "a terror" to Peron that it was expropriated; for no dictatorship, be it large or small, can stand for long before the truth.

A free and responsible press that will report the news objectively, comment fairly, prove all things, and keep searching for the truth even behind closed dors, uninfluenced and unafraid, has long been the aim of news publication in the western world. In proportion as that ideal is attained genuine freedom within the law comes to grace the affairs of human kind. Freedom of expression carries with it one of the greatest responsibilities of our times, without which print would be as destructive as gunpowder and capable of more disastrous abuse. This is that such freedom must never descend to license, to rob men of the very liberty it is pledged to uphold. It is one of the grim tragedies of this era that the concept of a free press is not shared universally around the world; that in authoritarian lands its truths have become lies, suborning the minds and the souls of millions until they have become slaves. From newsboy to publisher through every hour of the day and night in western lands a free and responsible press is an ideal to which thousands have devoted their lives. To them Dr. Gainza Paz is part of a singularly clear and honorable tradition; one which has wrapped up with it all that can be savored of man's inherent right to learn and to grow.



The Blind Men and the Elephant

J. G. Reidford, in The Toronto Globe and Mail.

Minority Representation

DEFEATED parties in the Esquimalt by-election may wrangle all they like over who was to blame for the result, but the most unfortunate aspect of it is that Esquimalt, a strongly anti-socialist electorate, is now to be represented in the legislature by a C.C.F. member. The socialist candidate goes in despite the fact that he received only a little more than one-third of the votes cast and less than one-quarter of the total possible vote. This is as sharp an illustration of minority representation as one is likely to find.

To a government as entrenched as that of Premier Johnson and Mr. Anscomb the loss of one seat is inconsequential; but to the large majority of Esquimalt residents it is a serious matter. Nor can it afford much real satisfaction to the C.C.F., which won the seat without any appreciable improvement in its standing in the electorate, or to Mr. Mitchell, who will enter the legislature with the discouraging knowledge that two-thirds of his constituents are—politically opposed to him.

The result in Esquimalt, however, does serve to demonstrate the importance and essential fairness of the alternative voting system of election set up by the legislature last session for use in the next general election. The real political issue in British Columbia lies between the free enterprise system of government, represented by two main parties now in uneasy partnership, and socialism, represented by the C.C.F. It would be wrong indeed for a government in power to change the election laws so as to defeat another party which might be able to obtain support for its policy from the majority of the electorate. The C.C.F. is not in that position, however, and it is in keeping with the principle of popular government that the electoral machinery should ensure the return of candidates standing for the type of government which the majority desires.

Before the next general election the coalition is to be broken and the election contested on straight party lines. The Esquimalt by-election has demonstrated the danger that minority government might be the result if the system of election has not by then been altered. It was altogether proper of the legislature to take measures to guard against any such threat to the political and economic welfare of the province.

A Blunt and Salutary Verdict

FEW BUSINESS organizations have suffered the condemnation voiced by the presiding judge at the trial of six western baking concerns found guilty of breaking the combine laws and indulging in practices inimical to the public, their customers. All three major groups—McGavin's, Weston's and Canadian Bakeries—were fined the maximum of $10,000 and costs, a penalty deemed by Mr. Justice McBride as "quite inadequate" to fit the case.

Bread is commonly regarded as the staff of life, and any manipulation of prices and restraint of free competition in this commodity undoubtedly works an extreme and unjust hardship in many homes. The actions of the companies concerned were cited as equivalent to forcible street robbery, and indeed as more offensive. This was blunt and salutary language, as was the warning of more severe penalties if these companies did not mend their ways.

It was stated further that some in the baking industry are more interested in price than in quality or service, a commercial point of view that often seems could be charged against some other industries. All across Canada, as has been made plain by investigators under the Combines Act, there is a deplorable tendency to regard the public as something that can be milked to the utmost cent, and held in bondage through controls secretly imposed by large and powerful industrial groups.

There should be a lesson to be learned from this trial and its result, and one trusts it does not go unheeded. There should also be a straight hint to federal authorities, not always as zealous as they might be in this connection, to give officials charged with administering the Combines Act the free hand the act envisaged, and back them to the limit when it seems apparent any group is bent on defrauding the public through illegal price and trade controls.

AN EXPLANATION

Sir,—During our recent blood clinics several reports reached me which require immediate and authoritative answer.

Apparently some ill-informed individuals were circulating the story in several parts of this district, stating that the Canadian Red Cross Society was selling blood. Of course the answer to this is an emphatic denial. The public, especially those who so generously donated their blood through the Red Cross Transfusion Service, are assured that their invaluable gift to the Red Cross is passed on entirely free of charge to the patient requiring it. All major hospitals in the province have signed a contract with the Red Cross Society binding them to use the blood, freely given to them by us, to use our equipment and to make no charge whatsoever for administering this blood.

Before the Red Cross undertook this service in 1947, blood was charged for at an average of $25 a pint and a charge was also made for administering; but the supply and administration of blood obtained through the Red Cross has never been, and never will be, charged for; and the Red Cross is the sole source through which blood is secured by the public hospitals of British Columbia.

The contrary rumor subversively circulated during our recent clinics affected them somewhat adversely, and for this reason may possibly cause a shortage of this life-giving fluid. This could cost the lives of some of our people at a time of crisis.

COMMUNITY CHEST

Sir,—From first results it appears that the Community Chest drive has failed to reach its objective by a considerable margin. All of us, whether affected or not, must naturally have sympathy with the organizers and particularly with those who will suffer as a consequence. From a purely personal point of view, however, I would humbly suggest that perhaps the main reason for the failure was a wrong psychological approach. Had the slogan not been "One-Third More," but an appeal to residents to repeat the outstanding success achieved last year, the result may have been different. It is obvious, I think, that had the one-third more been achieved, next year it would have been a request for "Two-Thirds More" and so on, and the public has a very definite limit to its spending power these days. Last year a certain amount of novelty and most certainly a powerful propaganda program was undoubtedly responsible for the success. The novelty at least was lacking this year.

Here in Sidney we were included in the drive and in spite of the lack of advertising and proper organization, we feel that the residents responded with surprising success.

Let us not criticize too harshly—we all of us seem too ready to criticize everything these days—but let us remember that the general public, who are continually being bombarded with tag days and appeals of every kind, sometimes reach the limit of their generosity. Some of us indeed are perhaps almost as destitute as those whom we try to help, but we are harder hit by having to keep up the front of respectability.

Thinking Aloud

Gerald Waring

"... of shoes—and ships—and sealing wax—of cabbages and kings."

By TOM TAYLOR

ON the morning after the Esquimalt embroglio an American visitor telephoned to ask where the word "riding" came from. Apparently he had been following our political peccadillos with interest but had been stumped by this substitute term for constituency.

Offhand it stumped me too, as badly as the query shot at me the night before by our telephone girl, that one about the Campbells and whether they were coming or going, hurrah, hurrah.

How should I know, none of them ever told me?

Nobody ever told me about political ridings either. I have accepted these as I take the air I breathe—without question—and so the best I could do for my American enquirer was to mutter vaguely that it must be an Anglo-Saxon term. I even hazarded a guess it might indicate the area which a man on horseback could ride on a single mission, which showed my ignorance.

* * *

For, of course, as soon as I laid the receiver down I rushed into the morgue, which is another term that needs explaining. A newspaper morgue isn't all this word implies, you know. For instance, in our morgue there is a very lively lady attendant, and all kinds of up-to-date information to help souls like yours truly when in distress.

Well, I found out a little bit at least about riding. In Anglo-Saxon the word literally meant "third," orginally written thrithing or thriding, and it stemmed from an old Scandinavian institution—the riding being a third of a larger district.

Victorians of Yorkshire descent are familiar with the term, for the largest county in England is so divided into administrative districts to this day—North Riding, East Riding and West Riding.

A riding, then, is just a division, or as we also phrase it politically, a constituency. And as you know the dictionary tells us a constituency is a district represented in a legislative body by the man or woman chosen by the voters, or constituents. Somewhere along the historical line politicians, with their taking ways, co-opted riding for their particular use.

* * *

After I had related all this to a colleague—not having the phone number of my American enquirer I had to tell someone of my discovery—he asked me what about hustings.

Where did this election term come from?

Why do they ever hold elections, I muttered to myself as I grabbed for an encyclopedia, a remark doubtless repeated by certain other individuals that morning.

My colleague stayed my hand, however, and explained.

Hustings is Anglo-Saxon too and, among other things, it was the platform from which candidates for parliament were nominated. In those days there were no party conclaves to pick a likely winner, the candidates were named on the public street.

Actually, my colleague told me, this is how Victorians handled their public business in the early days here. The hustings was placed outside the sheriff's office down Bastion Street way and aspirants to the bird cages across the Bay had to stand up and be accepted—or rejected.

Now, of course, the hustings is any place where campaign speeches are made, such as Esquimalt of immediate mixed memory. And thus ends the political lesson for today.

Reporting From Ottawa

WITH the time near at hand when the government will have to account to parliament for the effects of its policies, it is perturbed about the unfavorable report Resources Minister Winters must have on housing.

As one government official put it bluntly, "the housing figures are very depressing." Unit completions this year may be within 5,000 of last year's 91,000, but that's largely because of the big carryover of unfinished dwellings from 1950.

The real indicator of the doldrums which have beset the home construction industry is the number of housing starts this year. Officials of Central Mortgage and Housing Corp., the government housing agency, report that the number is 25 to 35 per cent smaller than in 1950.

Other figures contribute to the pessimistic picture: There will be 30,000 unfinished homes carried over into 1952, as compared with 60,000 under construction at the beginning of this year. Applications for housing loans were running 4,000 to 5,000 a month a year ago, yet in the first 12 days of September there were only 127. The cost of building an average house has advanced about $1,000 in the last year.

* * *

The main reasons for the slowdown in housing construction have been: (1) continuation of the January, 1950, peg on lending values and the suspension of the second mortgage provision of the National Housing Act—which taken together mean that you need one-third of the purchase price as down payment on a new home; (2) the higher cost of materials, and (3) the lack of sufficient serviced land.

The peg on lending values and the suspension of second mortgages are brakes the government deliberately brought to bear to reduce demand for building products and labor, and thus prevent shortages which would contribute to inflation.

Perhaps it can thus take credit for the fact that no serious scarcities of building materials have developed. But in view of the fact that the defense construction program has been slower getting started than was anticipated, there might have been no serious shortages even without these government deterrents to home building.

That's just speculation, of course. It would be almost impossible to prove or disprove—but it is clear that Canadians didn't build as many homes as they needed or as they could have built had credit not been tightened.

* * *

Last year new construction just about equalled new housing demand which developed in the year. It didn't touch the huge backlog of demand, estimated at between 500,000 and 700,000 units.

This year new construction won't even equal new demand—first, because there are fewer new homes being built than in 1950, and second, because the population is increasing faster this year than last, increasing housing demand.

For instance, 150,000 immigrants are coming to Canada this year—twice as many as in 1950.

If the government were to view the year's record in housing construction merely from the economic standpoint, it might be fairly well satisfied. But housing is a social need as well as a factor in the national economy. As the former, the shortage is felt most in the field of low rental housing, where demand may never be met without some form of government subsidizing.

There is no evidence that the government has lost its antipathy towards subsidized housing. But the figures on housing construction are evidence enough that if the government doesn't take some action to spur home building, it will surely be laying up grief for itself at election time.

Bottled Beauty

(From The Washington Post)

IT is no doubt a source of national pride, both commercially and esthetically, that toiletry sales increased 9 per cent last last year over the year before, reaching $840,100,000 and that the industry's billion dollar goal is in sight for 1951. As this sales gain outdistanced population gain, it would seem that many of us are definitely more attractive than a year ago—about 6 per cent more so. This includes men as well as women, for toiletries comprise shaving cream, shampoos, hair preparations, dentifrices, as well as traditional lipstick (said to be used by 99 per cent of American women), perfumes, face creams and powders. Moreover, toiletry figures do not include money spent on services at beauty shops.

While women have been concerned with cosmetics of some kind from the earliest civilization, it remained for 20th century United States to put bottled beauty on a big business basis. This development has chiefly taken place in the last 30 years. Its growth has reflected a great era of social change, including the rise of urban man, and especially urban woman, of the glamour cult, the bathing beauty cult, the speak frankly cult (which changed names of perfumes from Forget-me-not and Lily of the Valley to Temptation and Secret Sin) and the complete disappearance of the parental injunction, "Handsome is as handsome does."

Fun, Fact and Fiction

Always something new and different in the United States, like a strike of elevator operators over an escalator clause.

Conscience: That still small voice which makes one glance at the speedometer, then at the rear-view mirror.

A chemist showed up at a recent meeting of scientists attired in clothes derived entirely from petroleum. But won't it be rather dangerous—changing in winter to the lighter grade?

* * *

"Dick," said his mother, "I wish you would run across the street and see how old Mrs. Rush is."

"Yes'm," said Dick.

He bounced back in a few minutes and said, "Mrs. Rush says it's none of your business how old she is."

Science and Survival

By THE DUKE OF EDINBURGH

Excerpt from Prince Philip's presidential address to the British Association for the Advancement of Science, compared while his Royal Highness was in command of H.M.S. Magpie in the Mediterranean.

THE pursuit of truth in itself cannot produce anything evil. It is in the later stage, when the facts dug up enter the process of application, that the choice between beneficent and destructive development has to be made. It is quite certain that it is an exception if any particular discovery cannot be used equally well for good and evil purposes. Happily the benificent exploitation of scientific knowledge has kept pace with its destructive application.

To my mind it is vital that the two sides of scientific development are fully and clearly understood, not only by the research scientist, inventor, designer and the whole scientific team, but also by all laymen. The instrument of scientific knowledge in our hands is growing more powerful every day; indeed it has reached a point where we can either set the world free from drudgery, fear, hunger and pestilence, or obliterate life itself.

Progress in almost every form of human activity depends upon the continued efforts of scientists. The nation's wealth and prosperity are governed by the rapid application of science to its industries and commerce. The nation's workers depend upon science for the maintenance and improvement of their standard of health, housing and food. Finally, superiority or even our ability to survive in war is a direct measure of the excellence and capacity of the scientific team.

This team of research workers and engineers has a dual responsibility, one for its work and the other as informed citizens, and it can only fulfill its proper functions if its members have a sound general education as well as a thorough training in science. It is no less important that the people who control the scientific machine, both laymen and scientists, should have a proper understanding and appreciation of what science has grown into and its place among the great forces of the world.

It is clearly our duty as citizens to see that science is used for the benefit of mankind. For of what use is science if man does not survive?

While Visiting Britain

ONE of the important differences between Canada and Britain is that in Canada, everybody waves both from trains and at trains. When from the train window we see children watching us go by — or adults even — we wave to them. If we spy a farmer ploughing a field who glances up at us in our passage, we give him a wave. If we are on the ground, and a freight train rattles by, what is more natural than to give a wave to the engineer leaning out of his cab?

But in Britain, nobody waves at or from the trains. The children seem just as fascinated by trains as are Canadian kids. But if you make so bold as to wave at a bunch of them as you pass, they seem to flinch from a piece of presumption on your part. They glance quickly at one another. They lower their eyes.

In Britain, there is a greater proportion of odd and interesting looking adults than we have in Canada—characters, you might call them, who wear queer whiskers, who dress as they please, who wear the air of independent and happy human souls. They are the type which people of my inquisitive nature cannot help but want to know. But unconventional though they may look, they are conventional when it comes to being waved at cheerily by obvious strangers from train windows. I have tried it. It just doesn't work. They have developed to a high degree the faculty of appearing not to have noticed.

I tried it on the engineer of a passing goods train, as they call them in Britain. I waved and yelled "Hi!" The engineer craned out and looked up at the sky. Then he leaned down and examined his wheels; leaned out and looked back at his train. It was plain he thought I was trying to impart some information to him, instead of merely wanting to say hello.

With the Classics

Careless Content

I am content, I do not care,
Wag as it will the world for me;
When fuss and fret are all my fare,
It got no ground as I could see:
So when away my caring went,
I counted cost and was content.

With more of thanks and less of thought,
I strive to make my matters meet;
To seek what ancient sages sought,
Physic and food in sour and sweet;
To take what passes in good part,
And keep the hiccups from the heart . . .

The announcement was made by Mr. Gooderham last night at a meeting of Victoria and District Trades and Labor Council (A.F.L.-T.L.C.). Municipal Employees' Union delegate R. H. Volunteers Help Rebuild Hall

Standing in giant basement excavation under the Metchosin Hall are two of the many volunteers who have undertaken the job of rebuilding and strengthening the building. They are left, Morris Sobie and Joseph Patston who are preparing cribbing in preparation for concrete foundation. Building was considered unsafe about a year ago. Rather than demolish it, 50 area residents banded together to do the work. They have received donations of cement from the B.C. Cement Co., lumber from B.C. Forest Products, sand and gravel from Bert Parker at Producers Sand & Gravel, and nails from Hickman Tye. Residents hope to have job near completion in about a month.—Colonist photo by Ron Baird.

New 1951 Highs Reached In Well-Supported Spurt

By AP and CP

In a well-supported advance, the New York stock market yesterday made it three gains in a row and moved into new high price territory for 1951.

Not all of the market showed strength. There were several backward areas. Toward the end there was an outcropping of profit-taking. But the advance had strong leadership in steels, rubbers, coppers and rails.

The AP average of 60 stocks went up 50 cents at $101.20, a new 1951 high mark and the best since Sept. 17, 1930, when the average closed at $102.30.

The volume of trading was a big 2,380,000 shares.

PRICES FIRM

At Toronto, stock market prices held firm on early gains toward the session's close. Industrials, golds, base metals and western oils pushed higher in the third day of general advance, stemming principally from large base metal and western oil turnovers, boosted the session's volume to about 6,400,000 shares. Leading industrials were in demand.

Refining oils and steels formed the market's strongest sections with a wide list of advances ranging to about $3.

In Montreal, trading was extremely active as stock prices moved slightly higher towards the close on the stock exchange and curb market.

Changes ranged from minor fractions to more than a point among the few leaders. However, there were fewer of the major changes which characterized yesterday's list.

Base metals continued to figure prominently in the climb. Industrials showed a long list of gains, while senior oils and steels pushed moderately higher.

Beverages, carriers and banks were irregularly firmer.

OILS HIGHER

On the Vancouver stock exchange a few oils were higher and base metals leveled off but continued firm.

At Winnipeg, all grains scored sharp advances in active trade on the grain exchange, which saw general buying prompted by upturns on United States markets and by unfavorable harvest conditions. Offerings and hedging sales were light.

Export loadings of Canadian wheat in the last few days included 1,300,000 bushels for the United Kingdom, 700,000 for Belgium, 365,000 for Brazil, 900,000 for The Netherlands, 30,000 for Switzerland and 185,000 for Norway.

Use of Electricity Tops B.C. Record

A new record in power consumption was registered in August by the B.C. Power Commission when its 44,603 customers used a total of 34,423,186 kilowatt hours.

Previous record was set last July when power consumption totaled 31,919,650 kilowatt hours.

Power consumption in August represents an increase of 65.4 per cent over energy requirements for the same period in 1950, according to commission officials.

"Pointing up this increase is the fact that individual consumption during June, July and August is lower than during the winter," the commission noted. "Thus further increases are anticipated as daylight hours diminish."

London Market Showing Gains

LONDON, Oct. 3 (Reuters)—The stock market today made a bright start to the new trading period. New-account buying created small but widespread gains in domestic issues, with the provinces paying particular attention to the first-grade issues.

Textiles and rayons registered useful gains; while miscellaneous leaders such as Dunlops and Imperial Chemicals were better where changed.

British Government stocks were firm and active.

Speculators were again busy in foreign bonds. Japanese spurted to the extent of four points on the news that the Japanese finance ministry has raised its estimate of its external bond obligation. German Government loans were ¼ to 1¼ points better.

A revival of buying interest helped selected oil shares, particularly Shells and Royal Dutch.

Minings generally were firmer. Coppers and diamonds early improved on local buying which later spread to South African gold minings.

POWER-FUL NORWAY

OSLO (CP)—Celebrating its 50th anniversary, the Association of Norwegian Electric Generating Plants received a report showing annual production of electric power now is more than 17,000,000,000 kilowatt hours, highest per capita production of electric power in the world.

Foreign Exchange

MONTREAL, Oct 3 (CP)—The American dollar today closed at 57/16 per cent premium to the Canadian dollar, unchanged from Tuesday's close. That is, it took $1.05 7/16 Canadian to buy $1 American.

The pound sterling was $2.95¼, also unchanged.

Free Gold Statement Expected

OTTAWA, Oct. 3 (CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent indicated today an early announcement may be made on the question of establishing a free market for Canadian gold.

Asked when a statement on the question of allowing free export of gold for industrial purposes might be forthcoming, Mr. St. Laurent replied:

"We don't like to keep people waiting on these matters any longer than we have to."

Mr. St. Laurent said a statement would have to be made in view of the recent international monetary fund decision to leave it up to its member governments to decide whether to establish a free market for gold.

Canada, a member of the fund, was among a number of countries pressing at the fund's annual meeting in Washington last month for a free market.

It was assumed the question came before the morning session of today's meeting. Cabinet meets again this afternoon.

The council also discussed the government's legislative program for the fall session of parliament, opening Tuesday next, and Mr. St. Laurent said the Commons would be asked to recess next Wednesday and Thursday during the Ottawa stage of the Royal visit.

The Prime Minister reported to his colleagues on his discussions with President Truman in Washington last week on the St. Lawrence seaway project.

New Gas Finds Speed Export

CALGARY, Oct. 3 (CP)—New finds of natural gas in Alberta during the past year "are bringing us closer to the time when we can expect gas export," Mines Minister N. E. Tanner said today in Calgary at the opening of the annual western meeting of the Canadian Institute of Mining and Metallurgy and the second annual technical meeting of the petroleum and natural gas division.

"Since the interim report of the Petroleum and Natural Gas Conservation Board, the search for gas had been greatly accelerated, with the result that many new strikes and extensions in other areas have been made," the minister said.

"Supplies of natural gas have been increased, bringing us closer to the time when we can expect gas export."

Department Store Sales Take Big Drop in July

Department store business nose-dived in July, according to figures released yesterday by the Department of Trade and Industry.

During July the value of sales was estimated at $7,940,000, compared to $9,280,000 the previous month and $8,300,000 in July, 1950.

Trade and Industry Minister Leslie Eyres said reduced payrolls caused by the prolonged drought, and credit restrictions, had no doubt affected department store sales.

Wholesale sales in the province in July also dropped sharply from an index of 422.3 on June 1 to 384.7 on July 1. It was noted, however, that a decline in the volume of wholesale sales was general in all parts of Canada with the exception of the prairie provinces, where a marked advance in sales took place.

FEWER CHECKS

The drought is seen as the cause for a drop in value of checks cashed at clearing houses in the province in July.

Mr. Eyres said that basically the economy of B.C. remains in "a strong position."

"The various indices of production in our major industries are running above last year with minor exceptions," he said. "Demand for our products is high. Heavy construction in the province remains active with work progressing on many large contracts such as the aluminum plant, pulp mills, schools, public buildings and public utilities."

Pulpmaking May Become Top Industry in British Columbia

By BILL MAVOR

Manufacture of pulp appears headed toward one of the top Pacific Coast industrial developments, according to reports of a Sawmill Operating Conference just concluded in Portland, Oregon.

The more general use of log barkers for sawmills and the rapid introduction of chippers into widespread use among mills were noted as important developments for the lumber industry.

"Log barkers and slab barkers are aptly demonstrating their value for sawmill men in much better recovery and closer utilization of wood. They increase the wood recovery and clean wood may be chipped for pulp plants that are finding it profitable to transport chips up to 200 miles by rail and truck," the reports said.

Attending the conference were operators from British Columbia, Washington, Oregon, California, Idaho, Arizona and New Mexico.

The growing tendency to turn to more utilization of wood is easily spotlighted by British Columbia's immense strides in the pulp and paper industry. Eleven plants now employ 5,500 persons with an annual $18,000,000 payroll. Production is estimated to pass the 1,000,000-ton mark this year.

Powell River Co. Ltd. was the latest B.C. concern to move into high gear in the industry, announcing purchase of B.C. Manufacturing and Westminster Shook Mills at New Westminster, as well as two smaller mills. The mills are expected to assure wood supplies for the major pulp concern.

The Powell River Company is also reported from Vancouver eyeing possibilities of a subsidiary at Kitimat, the Aluminum Company of Canada site.

H. R. MacMillan plant at Nanaimo is under a $19,000,000 expansion and eventually may be doubled in production of pulp. Chips are being hauled major distances to the plant to assure supplies.

Bloedel, Stewart and Welch Ltd. at Port Alberni also is in midst of the pulp industry, as well as the joint efforts of Canadian Western Lumber Co. and Crown Zellerbach Corporation at Duncan Bay, on the Island's east coast.

Among other firms expanding on the mainland are Abitibi Power Co. in B.C. Pulp and Paper with Alaska Pine Co. help and Canadian Forest Products at Port Mellon pulp mill.

EDUCATION LAGS

Despite this boom, the education of personnel and inducement of young men to enter the sawmill business was reported a problem confronting the industry. Many plants are tempting interest by placing books in school and college libraries, the conference reports said. Others are offering regular training courses in their own plants.

Technical sessions of the conference were under chairmanship of D. E. Lane, British Columbia Forest Products Co. Ltd., Vancouver; and G. C. Studley, Glendale, Oregon.

Scientists Set For Final Trip

OSLO, Oct. 3 (NANA)—The 700-ton seal-catcher, Norsel, expedition ship of the Norwegian, British and Swedish scientists quartered in Queen Maud Land on the South Polar Continent, is now ready for its third and final trip to the Antarctic. The vessel has undergone a complete overhaul at Tromsoe and has been equipped with new radar equipment and a special crane to launch and take on board airplanes.

The Norsel will leave Tromsoe October 15 for Gothenburg where it will be taken over by the Anglo-Scandinavian expedition October 25. Loading of supplies and airplanes will then begin, with the ship scheduled to leave Gothenburg for Capetown around November 1.

It has not yet been decided whether Guttorm Jakobsen, skipper on the Norsel's two previous trips to Antarctica, will take the ship south this time. If not, his cousin, Leif Jakobsen, first mate on the Norsel's initial voyage to Queen Maud Land, December, 1949-January, 1950, will take over the job.

Rally in Bottom of Ninth Gives Giants Pennant

World series between Giants and Yankees will be real neighborly series with only "hoot and a holler" between Yankee Stadium on Bronx side of Harlem River and Polo Grounds on Manhattan side. Air view shows just how close home grounds of two clubs are to each other. Series opens at Yankee Stadium today. (AP Wirephoto.)

Don Mueller was only member of Giants unable to join in celebration of yesterday's victory over Brooklyn. He is shown being carried off field in agony after wrenching ankle in slide into third base moments before Bobby Thomson hit dramatic game-winning homer.

Thomson Hero Of Comeback

By BOB CONSIDINE

NEW YORK, Oct. 3 (INS)—The fantastic, incredible, stupendous New York Giants won the National League's diamond jubilee pennant today by beating the Dodgers 5-4 in the most dramatic finish in the recorded history of the game.

Trailing 1 to 4 in the last half of the ninth inning of the rubber game of the unprecedented three-game playoff, the Giants tore down the masterful Don Newcombe with a tremendous last-ditch drive climaxed, in simply unbelievable style, by Bobby Thomson's home run into the left-field seats.

The Giants, their courageous late-season drive apparently cruelly doomed on the threshold of victory, trailed at 2-4 when Thomson came to bat to face Ralph Branca with one out in the ninth. They had just shaved the fat Dodger lead by dint of successive singles to right by Alvin Dark and Don Mueller and by Whitey Lockman's slicing double to left.

TOO MUCH TO EXPECT

But it was still too much to hope for, too much to ask of anything except a movie script writer—even though the tormentor Newcombe was now walking sadly to his shower and was being replaced by the less imposing Branca.

Then it happened, and the 34,320 at the Polo Grounds and the millions through the country and world who were looking in or listening will not forget it if they live to the year 3000 A.D.

Branca blazed over a called strike. Clint Hartung, running for Mueller who had badly hurt his ankle coming into third base on Lockman's double and who had to be carried off the field on a stretcher—poised tensely a few yards off third. Lockman jockeyed back and forth off second.

And Branca threw. With every muscle and bone in his broad back and arms and wrists and hands, Thomson swung. The ball shrieked its way unerringly toward the lower left field stands and for one split second the hearts of Giants' fans whose memories go back to McGraw stood still.

And then there erupted in the Polo Grounds a scene of such vivid hysteria and unbridled emotion as to defy description.

Somehow, inconceivably, the Giants had won the pennant—after trailing 13½ games seven weeks ago and after being so close to being eliminated today just at the wire. They had won for the first time since 1937, and they will face the Yankees tomorrow in the first game of a world series which will have to plumb some dramatic recesses in order to escape being an anticlimax.

WILD EXUBERANCE

Eddie Stanky—who had played his heart out this season—jumped on Leo Durocher—who had eaten his heart out—knocked him to the turf and they wrestled in the wild exuberance of victory.

Thomson, when he scored, was hit by the entire Giants bench. Players — expensive players — spiked and flattened one another in a bruising huddle near the pitcher's box. Fans fell out of their sideline boxes and wildly fought the guards who sought, vainly, to protect the players from their excesses.

Durocher clawed his way away from a ton of pummelers, raced over to a box where sat his unashamedly weeping wife, Laraine Day, and half pulled her out of her seat with his embrace.

The stupefied Dodgers stood at their places in the field for a stunned moment, looking on the unreal scene before them, then turned quietly and walked off. This is one they'll never believe, though they were its victims.

In the press box, tiers of reporters leaped to their hind legs to join in the ear-splitting bellowing of the crowd. Then they sat down, tore up tentative tributes to the Dodgers, and groped for fresh adjectives to portray the startling events of the excruciating finish.

TRIBUTES TO DODGERS

Those tentative tributes would have had much to do with Jackie Robinson, whose first inning single to left, after Giants starter Sal Maglie had nervously walked Peewee Reese and Duke Snider, gave Don Newcombe a 1-0 lead which the big fellow roughly nursed for seven innings.

There would have been pertinent mentions, too, if the Dodgers had won, of the way Billy Cox played third base through the day. He started the double play that curdled Giant hopes in the third and made other superb stops and throws.

And, of course, there would have been full mention of the 3-run uprising of the Dodgers in the eighth. In that inning, with one out, the men of Charles Dressen finally got to Maglie, who had pitched brilliantly after his shaky start. Reese and Snider walloped singles to right, and Maglie wild pitched Reese home and Snider to third, before walking Robinson and serving singles to Andy Pafko and Cox.

That 3-run rally was enough to grab the Giants' rooters by the throat and throttle their buzzing over the way the Giants had tied it, 1-1, in the seventh.

BROKE SPELL

In that seventh Monte Irvin broke the bruising spell Newcombe was weaving over the Giants by doubling off the wall in left field. Lockman bunted and somehow Irvin made it safely to third base ahead of the throw, and both hands were safe.

The Thomson—who was to shine like a star of the first magnitude at the climax of the game—lifted a long fly to centre to score Irvin with the tying run. And Willie Mays, who had a horrendous time with his bat throughout the playoff, rolled drearily into a double play.

But the Dodgers pulled away and sent Maglie to his shower, with shoulders sagging. Big Newcombe turned on the heat blazingly in the last half of the eighth, to put the Giants down in order.

Larry Jansen pitched the ninth for the Giants and though he got the Brooks out in order his chances of being declared the official winner of the most exciting and significant ball game the Giants ever won were roughly comparable to his chances of succeeding George VI.

Newcombe looked as good as ever, coming up for the last half of the ninth. He made Al Dark swing vaguely at two high hard ones, but Dark pushed a grounder past Gil Hodges and was on base.

BALLY ON WAY

Newcombe bore down even harder on Don Mueller, but Don found one he could see and drilled it to right for a single, sending Dark to third.

When Newcombe made Irvin pop straight up you could have heard the groans as far as Wichita.

Then came—but not swiftly—the fantastic finish. Lockman's slash skidded off the wall in left, and Dark was home with the run that made it 4-2, and Mueller was lying in the dirt at third—moaning. It took ten minutes to examine his injury, call for the stretcher, and carry him to the distant centre field clubhouse.

Sometime during that period Dressen decided that he gone as far as he could with Newcombe. He consulted Clyde Sukeforth, who had been keeping an eye on the Dodger throwers in the bullpen, and Sukeforth reported that Branca had the most stuff.

It couldn't have been a more ideal choice—for Thomson and the Giants. It was Bobby's 32nd home run of the year, and probably the most important he'll hit the rest of his career.

Giants' manager Leo Durocher (2) and Ed Stanky get like couple of whirling dervishes on baseline after Thomson's clout. Leo ran out on baseline before three runners streaked in and Stanky tried to get him out of way. It ended up in this joyous wrestling match. (AP Wirephoto.)

Cougars Get Forwards; Drop Game to Flyers 6-0

By JIM TANG

EDMONTON, Oct. 3—Victoria Cougars' attack was bolstered today with the acquisition of two high-scoring forwards but their defence problem still remains unanswered.

Added to the Cougar roster were centre Doug Anderson of Edmonton and left-winger Fred Hildebrand of New Westminster.

General manager Fred Hutchinson reported that a deal with Tacoma Rockets is still in the negotiation stage and is expected to be consummated in the near future. He would not release the names of the players sought, but it is expected that one or two players on each team may be involved with the Cougars placing the emphasis on defensive help.

PLAYED WITH FLYERS

Anderson played with Edmonton Flyers in the Western Canada Major Hockey League last season, pivoting a line which included Dave Witiuk and Colin Kilburn. He accumulated 16 goals and 30 assists in 31 games. He looked good at Montreal Canadiens' training camp this year, was signed to a professional contract yesterday and assigned to Cougars.

Reported to be in excellent condition, Anderson will see action in the opener against Vancouver Canucks at Vancouver tomorrow if arrangements can be completed to fly him to the coast.

Already on the Cougar reserve list, Hildebrand agreed to turn pro in a telephone conversation to Hutchinson today. He tried out for Cougars last year but rejected terms and played with Sydney in the Maritime loop, where he was a teammate of Bob Bowness. He will be at Vancouver for the opener but is expected to see little action until he has had a few practice sessions.

LACK OF DEFENSE

Cougars had no offensive finish and showed lack of an adequate defense as they bowed to Edmonton Flyers, 6-0, tonight for their third straight exhibition loss.

The Edmonton team, which had only Kilburn and defenceman Bill Pettinger as holdovers from last season's amateur club, did not look as good as expected and lacked the polish of the Saskatoon club.

Flyers had Bill Brennan, goalie for Omaha in the United States Hockey League last season, between the posts and he turned in a workmanlike performance.

With Pettinger on defense were: Doug McCaig from Chicago Black Hawks, Pat Coburn from Omaha, Howie Cox from Montreal Royals and Jim Fleming from the University of Alberta.

The "Kid Line" of Eddie Joss, Eldor Thomas and Earl (Ching) Johnson from the junior Windsor Spitfires formed one attacking unit. Other forwards were: Kilburn, John Uniak from St. Louis Flyers; John Raynak, Moto McLean and Pop Backor from Omaha. Nellie Podolsky from Indianapolis of the American Hockey League and Hartley McLeod from Omaha.

SUMMARY

First period—1, Edmonton, Johnson (Joss) 18.33. Penalties: Joss (major), Donahoe (major), Thomas.

Second period—2, Edmonton, Cox (Uniak) 13.19. 3, Edmonton, Backor 19.18.

Third period—4, Edmonton, Backor (Kilburn) 3.42. 5, Edmonton, McLean (2.55). 6, Edmonton, Kilburn (McLeod, Raynak) 13.01. Penalty, Kilburn.

Colonist Gets Forms For Dodgers Tickets

A LETTER from the Brooklyn Dodgers Baseball Club bearing official World Series ticket application forms was received by The Colonist sports department yesterday.

The forms included two tabs to be filled in with the name and address of the applicant. One stated, "We regret that it was impossible to fill your World Series application. The seats ran out before the requests did!" The other said, "We are delighted to tell you that you'll be in on the World Series Show at Ebbets Field. Your tickets will be mailed to you."

There was no tab in the event the Dodgers failed to get into the series.

N.H.L. Drops Innovations For Face-Offs

ST. CATHARINES, Ont., Oct. 3 (CP)—Toronto Maple Leafs of the National Hockey League were told tonight that the N.H.L. has discarded a proposed innovation calling for a large face-off circle directly in front of each goal.

The league will return to the system of having two face-off circles on each side of the ice at both ends of the rink. But the circles will be 30 feet in diameter and 15 feet out from the goal line. Last year, the face-off spots in the end zone were 10 feet out from the goal and 20 feet in diameter.

There will also be a 30-foot face-off circle at centre ice.

Mat Line-Up Shuffled For Saturday

There has been a change in the line-up for this Saturday's wrestling card at the Bay Street Armory, promoter Nick Harris announced yesterday.

Bill Melby a former holder of the Mr. America title, who was scheduled to match holds with John Cretoria, is now billed to grapple with Logger Jack McDonald.

Cretoria is scheduled to meet Johnny Valentine in the other part of the double main event.

In a special event, George Strickland of Colorado will tangle with Al Watkins of Washington.

A match between local wrestlers is still to be arranged.

The Ontario Racing Commission yesterday suspended Jockey Gil Robillard from Ontario tracks "pending further investigation."

United to Seek Third Straight In Park Game

Victoria United will be seeking its third straight triumph in the Coast Soccer League when it meets Vancouver City at Royal Athletic Park Saturday at 2.30.

A win for United would give it a two-point margin as Vancouver Firefighters, co-leaders, will be idle. North Shore and New Westminster Royals will meet in the other game at Callister Park.

City, although highly rated, got off to a disappointing start and will be seeking its first victory after two defeats.

United will hold its regular workout at Royal Athletic Park tonight at 7.30 when the starting line-up for Saturday's game will be decided.

Royals, Rockets Win

New Westminster Royals and Tacoma Rockets scored hockey exhibition victories yesterday.

The Royals downed Kelowna Packers of the Okanagan Senior Amateur League 4-2 at Kelowna, and Rockets overcame a two-goal deficit to defeat Spokane Flyers 5-2 at Spokane.

A breakaway goal by Bobby Love late in the third period while the Royals were shorthanded proved to be the winner. Butch Houle added the insurance marker. Gordon Fashoway and Jerry Cahans scored the other goals for the Royals, and Mike Durban and Normie Kirk, one of three players loaned to the Packers, scored for the losers.

Royals leave for home today to prepare for their league opener against Vancouver Canucks Saturday.

Spokane took a 2-0 lead over Tacoma in the first period on goals by Doug Carrigan and Hughie Scott. The lead was shortlived as Maurice Young with two, Doug Adams, Mark Marquess and Len Halderson scored for the Rockets.

Vancouver Canucks edged Seattle Ironmen, 6-5, in another exhibition game at Seattle. George Homenuke was the individual star, amassing three goals for the losers.

Frank Kubasek, in addition to scoring two goals for Seattle, received a three-stitch cut over his right eye.

Bob Drainville of Seattle took the penalty laurels—there were 18 penalties handed out. He was set down for cross-checking, fighting and a misconduct for fighting again en route to the penalty box.

Combines Blister Petes To Gain 3-2 Series Lead

VANCOUVER, Oct. 3 (CP)—Vancouver Combines rocked Peterborough Petes 15-10 tonight to take the fifth game of the Canadian senior lacrosse final and gain a 3-2 series lead. Sixth game in the best-of-seven set will be played here Friday. The seventh, if necessary, will be played Saturday.

Combines wore down Petes with their blistering speed in the first half and then in the last two periods blitzed the easterners with a shower of shots from every angle.

Petes still had a chance in the last period, when they were two goals down, but killed it with penalties. Nip O'Hearn drew two minors for slashing Gogie Stewart across the face and Ross Powless was off twice for checking on the head and tripping.

When O'Hearn cracked Stewart the second time, a fight erupted and Denny Peterson of Peterborough, O'Hearn and Alex Mackay and Jim Swanson of Vancouver trooped to the box.

Powless chose that moment to trip Roy Cavallin and Petes were light three. Combines toyed with them, shoving two more by the helpless Moon Wootton in the dying seconds.

Combines started slowly and Peterborough slowed them down further with heavy checking, while taking a 4-1 lead in the first quarter.

The westerners blew the game wide open in the second period until the pace hit its hottest tempo of the series. At the half, Combines were behind 7-6.

They scored the only three goals of the third quarter and matched Petes three times in the final period. With a tail-end flourish, they rifled home three more in the last two minutes.

Stocky Jim Swanson fired four goals for Vancouver and drew an assist on another. Bert Ticehurst, Stewart, and Roy Cavallin shot two apiece and the others went to Rene Leatherbarrow, Ernie Smith, Ken Webb, Jim Kinna and Rois Bayford.

Merv McKenzie, Petes' top man tonight, sank two goals and Russ Slater and Don McPhail also had two each. Curly Mason, O'Hearn, Peterson and Bob Thorpe scored the others.

Rocks to Get Crack At Petes Monday

Victoria Shamrocks did not make the Mann Cup lacrosse final but they are going to get a chance to meet the eastern champions—thanks to the balky Memorial Arena freezing plant.

Peterborough Petes, the eastern titlists, are currently engaged in the Mann Cup final with Vancouver Combines at Vancouver and trail three games to two. The best-of-seven series will wind up either tomorrow or Saturday.

With Victoria Cougars' scheduled hockey opener Monday postponed because of lack of ice, Shamrock officials completed arrangements for an exhibition game against the Petes on the Thanksgiving Day holiday. And according to coach Arnie Ferguson—"we will be going all-out to win."

Ferguson stated that the Rocks will be at full strength with the exception of Norm Coates, who is a doubtful starter because of toe injury. Whitey Severson, whose loss through a broken foot possibly cost Shamrocks victory in the Inter-City Lacrosse League play-offs, is expected to see some action.

Tickets for Monday's game will be priced at $1.00 and 75 cents. Season ticket holders may pick up their tickets tomorrow between 10.00 a.m. and 5.00 p.m. at the arena. Unsold tickets will be put on general sale on Saturday between 10.00 a.m. and 5.00 p.m. and on Monday between 1.00 and 5.00 p.m.

Yanks Top 8-5 Odds on Series; Koslo to Duel Allie Reynolds

NEW YORK, Oct. 3 (AP).—The never-say-die New York Giants won the National League championship today in baseball's greatest comeback and turned with fierce confidence to face New York Yankees in the world series tomorrow.

Bobby Thomson's ninth-inning home run with two on powered the Giants to a 5-4 victory in the third and deciding playoff game with Brooklyn Dodgers and provided a spectacular finish for baseball's most dazzling success story.

The only thing in baseball's past that rivals the feat of the Giants was the rise of Boston Braves in 1914 in last place July 4. But the Braves, miracle team that they were, only had to overcome an 11-game handicap and they started earlier than the Giants. Since Aug. 11, the Giants have won 39 out of 47 games, for an incredible percentage of .830, overcoming a Brooklyn lead of 13½ games.

Yet the Yankees are 8 to 5 favorites to beat them in the big show because their good pitching staff is well rested since clinching the American League pennant last Friday.

Manager Leo Durocher—baseball's onetime "bad boy" and now sitting on top of the world—will send Dave Koslo (10-9) to the mound against the Yankee ace, Allie Reynolds (17-8).

The world series will seem an anticlimax after the National League race. It will pit the Yankees, proud and perennial champions, against a young and dashing Giant club that started the season with a dismal 11-game losing streak and then fought its way to the top.

The first two games of the best-of-seven series will be in Yankee Stadium, which seats 70,000, and then play will move to the Polo Grounds which holds 55,000.

Unless weather intervenes, these are the dates:

Thursday, Oct. 4, and Friday, Oct. 5, Yankee Stadium; Saturday, Oct. 6, Sunday, Oct. 7, and Monday, Oct. 8, Polo Grounds; Tuesday, Oct. 9, and Wednesday, Oct. 10, Yankee Stadium.

All world series seats have been sold and scalpers are asking two and even three times face value which $6 for each reserve seat and $8 for each box seat.

This is the 18th time New York Yankees have won the American League championship. The Giants won the National League title 15 times previous to this year.

The Bevan groups policies outlined in pamphlets called "One Age Only" and "Going Major Way" have received probably the worst drubbing the British press has ever accorded a pair of "documents." Culbertson on Bridge - - - -

(Copyright 1951, by Ely Culbertson)

It is one thing to make a gambling penalty double of such a contract as one no-trump or two in a minor suit, and it is quite another thing to stand for a redouble which, if fulfilled, will give the enemy game. East was too "brave" in the following deal:

South, dealer
Both sides vulnerable.

NORTH
♠ Q 9 8 2
♥ Q 10 5
♦ A K 9 4
♣ J 10

WEST
♠ A 10 6 4
♥ K J 9
♦ J 6
♣ 8 7 5 3

EAST
♠ K 5
♥ A 8 4 3
♦ Q 7 2
♣ K 9 6 2

SOUTH
♠ J 7 3
♥ 7 6 2
♦ 10 8 5 3
♣ A Q 4

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
Pass	Pass	1 ♦	Pass
1 N.T.	Pass	Pass	Dbl.
Redbl.	Pass	Pass	Pass

South made his redoubled contract against the defenders' best efforts, and thereby scored a game simply by winning seven tricks!

Beyond doubt, South had his own neck out when he made the redouble, but he at least had a great deal to gain if he played at that contract, whereas East-West had little to gain and a great deal to lose by standing for the redouble.

It was not West who deserved criticism his pass over the redouble was logical enough. He had passed originally and had passed again over South's weak no-trump response; surely, East could not expect West to have a better hand than he was ready to produce.

It was East, the last one to speak for his side, who should have "bailed out" of a dangerous situation by bidding two clubs. Even though he too had passed previously, over North's one diamond, there was no way of West's knowing that that pass had not been of the trapping variety—but East himself knew. It was not illogical (though it was risky!) to make a competitive bid when the one no-trump came around, but South's redouble changed the picture radically, and it was now up to East to get out of extreme danger.

Uncle Wiggily Story - - -

By Howard Garis

BUSTER'S POTATOES

Bunty, the cute little orphan rabbit, and Susie Littletail, another rabbit girl, had built a playhouse in the woods. It was made of tree branches, weeds and grass.

Soon after the playhouse was finished, Buster, the Rabbit Scout, and other animal boys started a game of baseball in a field near the woods where Bunty and Susie had made their little house.

Jackie Bow Wow had knocked a long, fly ball which fell in front of the playhouse. Buster started to get the ball, but before he could reach it, Bunty rolled the ball inside the playhouse.

Breathing hard because of his run after the ball, Buster suddenly stopped and asked, "Do you see our baseball, Bunty?"

"No, Buster, I don't see it," Bunty answered, looking around on the ground. Bunty was telling the truth, but not all of the truth. If she had told all the truth she would have said, "I saw the ball, Buster, and I rolled it into our playhouse. That's why I can't exactly see it now."

Bunty didn't tell all the truth because she and Buster had a little quarrel. Buster made fun of the "baby talk" as he called it, between Bunty and her doll Priscilla. That's why Bunty didn't tell all the truth as she should have done.

"Are you sure you don't see the ball, Bunty?" asked Buster.

"No, I don't see it," Bunty answered.

"Do you see the ball, Susie?" the Rabbit Scout asked.

"No, I don't see it," Susie answered. Like Bunty, Susie did not tell all the truth as she should have done.

Susie really couldn't see the ball because it was inside the playhouse. Buster twinkled his little pink nose as his daddy, who was Uncle Wiggily, twinkled his larger pink nose.

"This is queer," said Buster. "I am sure I saw the ball come over this way after Jackie Bow Wow hit it with the bat."

"Why don't you ask my doll Priscilla if she sees the ball?" said Bunty to Buster. "My doll can talk, you know."

"Yes, she can speak baby talk," said Buster. "Silly, I call it!"

"You go on away, Buster Longears!" exclaimed Bunty. "You are always making fun of my doll! Even if I did know where the ball was I wouldn't tell you now."

"All right," said the Rabbit Scout. "All right, I'll call all the fellows over here and we'll look until we find that ball."

"Bring all the fellows you want, Buster Longears," said Bunty. "But if they touch our playhouse I'll tell Uncle Wiggily."

"Pooh! Pooh!" sneered Buster.

"Pooh! Pooh!" sneered Bunty, which was not very nice for either little rabbit.

Then from the hall held Peetie Bow Wow, who was on Buster's team, barked and asked, "Did you find the ball, Buster?"

"No, I didn't," answered the Rabbit Scout. "I think Bunty and Susie know where our ball is but they won't tell."

"Momsie darlingums precious-ums," said Priscilla, "does 'oo want meums to speak to Buster darlingums?"

"No, no, Priscilla!" Bunty exclaimed. She did not want her doll to tell the secret.

"Bah! More baby talk!" sneered Buster. "I'm going back to the field and I'll find a way to make you tell where the ball is, Bunty."

"Oh, is that so?" said Bunty as Buster hopped away. "Ha! Ha!"

"What will Buster do, Bunty?" asked Susie.

"I don't know and I don't care," said Bunty. "Let's go in the playhouse where the ball is."

When Buster reloined his ball players he said, "Come on, fellows, we're going to roast some potatoes in a fire."

"Will that help us find the lost ball?" asked Peetie Bow Wow.

"I think it will," Buster answered.

If you are wondering how roast potatoes can find a lost ball, you may learn more in tomorrow's story. That is if the puppy dog will take the bell off the pussy cat's neck to ring and call the goldfish and canary bird to school.

Buildings Shut Monday For Thanksgiving Day

The Parliament Buildings will be closed on Monday, Oct. 8, for the observance of the Thanksgiving Day holiday.

The provincial museum will be open to the public on Thanksgiving Day between the hours of 9 a.m. and 5 p.m.

Monday, Nov. 12, has been proclaimed a holiday for provincial government employees because Remembrance Day, Nov. 11, falls on a Sunday this year. Nov. 12 still has not been proclaimed a general holiday under the Factories Act, but this action is expected to follow soon. In 1945, the last time Nov. 11 fell on a Sunday, a general holiday was proclaimed a day later.

Back-to-Work Proposal Advanced By Non-Strikers at Shipyards

A return to work proposal has been advanced by some non-strikers idled at two Victoria shipyards by an eight-day-old walkout of the Boilermakers' Union.

This was reported by some idled workers who attended a meeting of Joint Shipyard Council last night. It was learned their feelings were expressed from the floor of the meeting.

The council executive issued no instructions regarding these expressions. There was no vote taken.

The meeting followed a complete breakdown of negotiations toward a settlement of the boilermakers' strike at Victoria Machinery Depot and Yarrows Ltd. Picket lines of the 400-member union have been respected by another 800 workers.

Two days of negotiations between the companies and the union ended in failure yesterday after a three-hour meeting in the Labor Relations Board offices. The union seeks a 50-cent hourly pay boost, having previously rejected a conciliation board recommendation of 25 cents hourly and other conditions.

TWO PROPOSALS

Last night, some 300 non-strikers and about 50 striking boilermakers attended the joint shipyard council meeting. In a statement issued later, council said the strikers' executive had rejected two compromise proposals.

One was that the boilermakers' remove all picket lines on the understanding that all trades of the shipyard council would respect the strikers' normal work as "hot."

The second was that the boilermakers' accept conditions now in effect for other trades with the proviso that after a stated period, all unions under the conditions would apply and negotiate jointly for an upward revision of wage standards.

The stated period could be three months or whatever time is agreed upon, the statement said.

The council said that as far as was learned, the two proposals had not yet been placed before the boilermakers' membership.

GOOD SENSE

An operators' statement said, "It is hoped that the good sense of the majority of the Boilermakers' Union will recognize a settlement, which is still open, as an acceptable and final offer."

Both companies reject the union's executive claim for a more favorable wage settlement than that accepted by other unions, the statement added.

The offered settlement of a minimum increase of $522 yearly "is felt a very fair one," it was [illegible] would receive an annual income of $3,848 for 50 weeks at 40 hours each. It would also provide two weeks' paid holiday and eight paid statutory holidays.

30 PER CENT HIGHER

The Victoria shipbuilding industry could not stand further increased costs, the statement added, as Pacific coast wage costs are 30 per cent higher than in eastern Canada. Future work on the Coast would not come to Victoria if Vancouver costs were lower.

The companies also stated that offered new work has been turned down and no bids may be made during the strike. Present work, mostly of national import [illegible] said the community is losing a weekly payroll of $75,000.

The union executive, meanwhile, offered no comment on the breakdown of negotiations. It announced however, a meeting at 8 p.m. tonight in the Boilermakers' Hall of local 238 (T.L.C.).

Lumber Sales High in August Despite Losses

VANCOUVER, Oct. 3 (CP)—Despite a two-month stoppage in logging, August shipments of lumber out of British Columbia ports exceeded July and June, it was learned today.

However, operators predict a sharp drop in export if weather freezes out loggers in October and November.

During August, 85,724,139 board feet of lumber was exported against 83,553,445 in July and 84,971,586 in June. Ninety per cent of August exports went to Commonwealth countries.

The shipments for the most part came out of reserves and leading exporters calculated exports were a third down at month's end.

Reserves are gone now, and operators are casting a worried eye at the weather. The United Kingdom has ordered 50,000,000 feet of timber a month before July, 1952.

In the Vancouver Forest District, 324,544,000 board feet of timber were measured by government scalers in July against 314,173,104 in July last year.

The finance committee reported a gross turnover of $679 of which $100 was used for two scholarships.

A tentative date for the school drama festival was set at March 31 to April 4.

City War Toll, 118,000 Killed

HAMBURG, Oct. 3 (NANA)—The population of Hamburg, western Germany's largest city, was literally decimated by World War Two, it appears from a detailed survey just made public by the Hamburg statistical office. Some 118,000 persons, or about one out of 10 pre-war residents of this city, were killed in the war.

Of this total, 41,000 were killed in action, or died in prison camps, while 55,000 were victims of air raids. Among these civilian casualties there were 5,586 children.

Get Yard, Scott Told By Wismer

"He'd better get Scotland Yard on the case," Attorney-General Gordon Wismer said last night about reports that William Scott, one of the swindle victims in the Gillies-Walls case, had expressed disappointment in the results of an investigation.

The attorney-general earlier said the R.C.M.P. had advised him that the investigation has been concluded.

Clyde Gillies and Percival J. Walls, a Victoria lawyer, were sent to prison for defrauding persons in Victoria and Vancouver of sums that allegedly exceeded $250,000.

Mr. Scott, who was defrauded of $9,000 by Gillies, said that a "completely public" investigation should be made, or the results of the R.C.M.P. probe should be made public.

"We have had the best brains in the R.C.M.P. on this case," Mr. Wismer said. "Maybe Mr. Scott thinks he has more brains than they have.

HAVE DONE BEST

"We have done our best," he added. "If Mr. Scott has any evidence we have not seen, we are quite prepared to lay charges against anybody, if they are warranted."

Brent Murdoch, member of the Victoria police commission which ordered the investigation, said, "It is the intention of the commission to see the R.C.M.P. report and make a thorough study of it."

James Neely, also a member of the commission said, "As far as the commission is concerned we don't know yet what is going on. We can do nothing until we receive a report from the police chief, our detectives and the attorney-general."

Pardonable Stiffness in First Concert

By RAY BAINES

Hans Gruber and the Victoria Symphony Orchestra teed off last night on the first of the coming season's round of concerts with a little off-season stiffness still showing.

Nevertheless, one of the biggest audiences ever to turn up for a symphony concert applauded all the way.

Back in full strength after recent talk of reducing its size for budget reasons, the orchestra displayed most of its usual enthusiasm, but lacked some of last year's season-end precision.

This is probably to be expected. Rehearsal time and money are at a premium and the orchestra has been together only a few weeks this year.

Any noticeable irregularities were technical ones. The ability of Mr. Gruber and the musicians to interpret the music is evident. However, the lack of intonation and section precision in parts was also apparent.

This is in no way meant to condemn or to ignore the problems facing the men and women who play.

STANDARD FORMED

Perhaps it is unfair to appraise the performance of a work in terms of the best one has heard. But unfortunately, the best performance of familiar works stick and form an unintentional standard.

The major work was the Beethoven Sixth Symphony. "The Pastoral," which even with minor imperfections was a joy to hear.

Perhaps the most spirited part of the Beethoven work, the third movement, was the best played. In any case it sounded best.

The hunting call French horn parts were pleasing and technically good. The peasant's dance sounded like a dance.

In some ways, this can not be said for the Brahms Hungarian dances which were performed earlier in the program. Probably for good reason, the dances were taken at a slower tempo than is usual. But, again judging from other performances, they seemed to drag a little.

ADAGIO PLEASING

The Samuel Barber "Adagio for Strings" was in many ways the most pleasing and best handled piece on the program.

Here the strings, which erred somewhat in other works in the plain and simple principles of section co-ordination and tone purity, displayed greater polish and precision.

The work was written entirely for strings. This may have instilled a sense of responsibility into the violin section which they may have lacked when supported by brass and woodwinds.

The recurrent simple theme with close minor harmony ran its course of variations with a good deal of strength and clean tone. Its difficulty is not so much one of technique as one of tone, and tonal quality was there in measurable quantities.

WILL BE BETTER

We got the over all impression that this performance could have been, and future ones will be better.

It may take Mr. Gruber a couple of concerts to work some of the stiffness out but he's the one who can do it.

The next performance October 29 offers a wonderful line-up of music including works from Bizet's Carmen and the tremendous Tschaikowski Sixth Symphony.

James Fraser Funeral Held At Vancouver

Mr. Fraser ended his railway career in Victoria, retiring in 1926. A native of Windsor, Ont., he joined the Canadian Pacific Railway at Yale when the final links of the railway were being completed. Later he was superintendent at Nelson and then assumed his Island position.

Sarnak, So Popular Here, Now To Be Sent To Darkest Africa Via Boat

Medicine's Originator Sets Sail For London This Fall

TORONTO—The people of South Africa, Australia, New Zealand and England who are suffering with some forms of arthritic pain, kidney and stomach upsets and nutritional anemia are going to be able to obtain Sarnak. So successful has Sarnak been in Canada that one of the largest drug companies in England has asked to be allowed to distribute the medicine in those countries.

The originator of Sarnak sails for England in the late Fall to arrange for distribution and further supplies of the ingredients that go into the manufacture of the medicine.

Here in the West, Sarnak has become a household word in less than a year. The manufacturers have at times been hard pressed to produce sufficient to supply everyone.

Wholesalers and Druggists have been concerned as to whether the export of Sarnak to other Commonwealth countries would affect supplies to the Prairie provinces and the Pacific coast. They were reassured, however, by the arrival of several carloads of Sarnak during the past month.

The question now remains what the supply of Sarnak is going to amount to in Canada once it is offered for sale to the 68 million people in South Africa, Australia, New Zealand and England. In the meantime, western Druggists have a quota of Sarnak and are being advised by the manufacturers to discourage the sale of Sarnak in quantities of more than one bottle at a time.

Among the many new people who will have the opportunity of taking Sarnak will be some like the above. A pretty savage-looking fellow isn't he? And yet he is a soldier in the British Army when he dresses. 1214
